FROM:

[redacted]
Executive Secretary, SIG(I)

SUBJECT: Minutes of 1 August 1983 Meeting on CM Organizational Study

Minutes of Meeting

The Chairman, Mr. William J. Casey, opened the meeting by reviewing briefly progress since issuance of the 1985 Capabilities Study one year ago, noting in particular the value of the CI Organizational Study completed in June 1983, and the CM Organizational Study being submitted at this meeting for SIG(I) approval. The Chairman invited General Richard Stilwell, Chairman, IG/CM, to present the Study and its findings. [redacted]

General Stilwell introduced the Study as a counterpart to the CI Organizational Study, and pointed up the following: overall value in the completion of this extensive review; [redacted]

General Stilwell highlighted and explained the scope of the Study and each element within five main categories--warning mechanisms, technical collection countermeasures, general security countermeasures, operations security, and the countermeasure superstructure. He also provided insights on the nature of the Study's conclusions, and he itemized several areas of concern that should be pursued; [redacted]

Mr. McMahon observed that, in approving the CM Organizational Study, care should be taken to examine some of the wording in the Study--that we not get trapped. He noted, for example, that such wording as "we defer to the Attorney General's work under way" could be problematical regarding personnel security. Mr. McMahon suggested that we may be compelled to disagree with the outcome; thus, wording to the effect that "we will await completion..." would be more appropriate. General Stilwell agreed that this revision be made.
